PAPERSKATER TIP SHEET #4

ONE PAGE. NO EXCUSES.

Why page two doesn't exist.

THE MISTAKE

Twenty years of jobs crammed onto two or three pages. Nobody hiring for frontline work reads page two — the supervisor has a hundred applications and a shift to cover. If your best stuff is on page two, it doesn't exist.

FIX IT TONIGHT

✓ Last ten years only
Everything older comes off. Ten years proves you can do the work. Twenty just proves you can type.

✓ Group the short jobs
Bounced around? One heading covers it: "Warehouse Associate · Various · 2019–2024." Clean, honest, done.

✓ Cut the references line
"Available on request" is implied — everybody knows it. That line is just squatting on space your skills could use.

Pack a lunchbox, not a suitcase. One page forces you to choose what matters — and that is the whole skill.
